After the events of The Shadow and the Flame, the Union of Republics is in search of a new leader. the perfect leader for a new kind of regime. Not one that will make promises to have a fairer distribution of food rations, or create better education opportunities for all. The Union's new leader is a man to be feared. They will lead their nation to a new golden age, a powerful era where the Union becomes an undisputed force in the world. The Union leads to success. The Union is built on success. To lead this new era, to cement our place as one of the most powerful nations in the world, the Union needs a strong leader. That leader will need to understand the needs of their people, know how to get their heart beating, and will be able to carry on a conversation about the complexity of history without making an ass out of themselves. A true leader. The Flower Collectors (2017) is such a game. It takes place in a parallel universe that was created when the original game was released but remains only partially accessible in the story. But this doesn't mean that the game falls into the trap of making a lame secret level. instead, this game embraces its weirdness and makes it a fundamental part of the experience, while focusing on creating a sort of dark, Gothic atmosphere that will take you to a new kind of world. The game takes place in a very dark world, where the harmony of a shadowy, sinister power is slowly emerging. In this strange environment, the player will take the role of a girl called Frances who is traveling with her friend Juliet in their caravan, looking for monsters to harvest their petals. While in the caravan, a strange phenomenon of glowing red lights will start appearing in the sky and you will start hearing some strange sounds. Because of this, you will be constantly paranoid, and when you attempt to escape to get help, you will end up in trouble. If you look at the game today, it looks pretty rad. But back then, it was practically unheard of. It was a sort of evolution of the field of ideas already covered by previous games like Pikmin. During its development, the game had to undergo several big changes (which I won't go into here), and while it remains difficult to see the direction the game could have taken if it were released as it originally was, I think the massive amount of work that the developers put into it is what makes it such

"Arcady" is a drinking card game that uses the concept of drafting and building decks that can be fully customized and personalized. Play cards during each round to have a chance to "Draft" new cards, and when the game is over, you can take those that you want to keep and "Commit" to a deck, which means it can no longer be redrafted and readies to be played in future games.

A fast-paced 2D story-driven hand-drawn platformer in which you explore a mystical underground world, solve a mysterious puzzle, and earn a place among the deities of the Japanese pantheon. A fluid, atmospheric mix of hand-drawn 2D visuals and 3D cel-shaded art that will draw you deeper into the world of Yako. Three playable characters with their own unique mechanics, abilities, and looks to discover. Three playable levels each with its own unique aesthetic and puzzles. Branching dialogue with over 200 possible choices. BONUS: an epilogue, animation mock-up, and manga-style full-color comic that brings to life a pivotal and never-before-seen moment from the game's events. The H-CHUNG-HUNG GAME JUST GOT A F*CKIN' RIDICULOUS NAME! We couldn't have asked for better timing, as the franchise's quirky humor and fun gameplay fit perfectly in the satirical climate of today's internet where even serious issues get ridiculous. Also, it's officially up for sale in the Nintendo eShop here in Japan! As far as I can tell, the game hasn't been released in the US yet. I do not wish to come off as spammy, but I am not a paid spammer. It has been a while since I have posted, but I have completed the translation, and I would like to tell you all that the game is now up for sale on the Nintendo eShop! Right now, for one month only, the price will be 25,000 yen. After that, it will go back to the regular price of 15,000 yen (approx $150 USD). So, if you are interested, be sure to pick it up now while the price is low! The gameplay is the same as it was in the show, and the character designs are also the same as they were in the show. I think the fans of the show will enjoy the game and learn more about their favorite characters! Excited to hear the game is so close to release in Japan. The release is coming very quickly though, since it will be up for sale on the Nintendo eShop starting tomorrow, April 7th. I really hope that it will be released in English soon, since a lot of people have expressed interest! Oh, and I have been working on the game for riflescope The astonishing clarity and excellent resolution of the Tiger Tank 59 Ranger XD above and Tiger Tank 59 Accessories? Free Add-Ons below make this ATN's?Best Value? title a no-brainer in the Ranger XD, or any other Scout-Tek 40mm or 40x70mm Powermobile M14, MH14, NX 14, MP14, PT95, XTRA, and XTL PLUS lineup of red-dot optics. Tiger Tank 59 Tiger Tank 59 MAGNOLITE SOUTHERN AUSTRALIA PTY LTD (ASX: MAX) is pleased to announce that it will be making available two additional Tiger Tank 59 spare parts kits to fulfil customer demand, courtesy of MAGNOLITE and Lion ARMS (ASX:LI). These are two available as of today, however Tiger Tank 59 supply is expected to increase over the coming months to meet demand. For those who are unaware of the Tiger Tank 59 range, it represents a complete redesign of the style of the popular Scout-Tek 40x70mm Powermobile M14 line of riflescopes, following the success of the Snowy Range and Base loaded Vanguard MKII products. MAGNOLITE and Lion ARMS have been supplying both SKUs in Europe, with very positive feedback so far. The key difference being the inclusion of a real muzzle brake, and the new rear chassis more akin to the full-sized rifle tank. The snout is redesigned to accommodate the addition of the brake shell, profile that is deeper than the Vanguard MKII front chassis and more reflective. Mag, offer a unique range of rear and side catch points with the two SKUs, providing a greater range of applications and client needs. For more details on the special offer further click here Please note that only Tiger Tank 59 pistolscopes with integral muzzle brakes are included in the two parts kits. MAGNOLITE IN THE MIDDLE EAST Australia has signed a strategic alliance with GALILEO to supply Scorpion Pistolscopes to the Middle East market. MAGNOLITE's unique range of Scorpion Rays, Scorpion Beamers (Dual Beamers), and Halo Beamers (each with 4 or 5 magnification settings) are the first in the world to feature the patented beam shaping system, COR-TALK. For more details on the special offer please click here. Lion ARMS in the MIDDLE EAST Australia was the first to release the industry-leading Tiger
