----- SwapOut is a game that lets you customize every aspect of your weapon and ammo. We all know first person shooters these days, but don't you wish you could go into them and just customize every single aspect of your gun? All in such a way that makes it the one gun that you play with for the rest of the game? A similar game is "Dead Space 2" but SwapOut is a 0.1 (or less) CRPG roguelike FPS with gun customization in mind. Your ammo drops are bound to help you kill some zombies. You start off with your favorite gun, but soon you'll find that the gun you start with is no match for the crazy guns you come across. Your mission is to start with some very basic gun, and keep on building your toolbox as you go through the game. The enemies will come in different forms. Burgers, Cat Lickers, and Zombie Dogs to name a few of the many. You will start fighting them with your trusty gun and then try and augment it with some upgrades. Once you've gotten your hands on a gun that suits your playstyle, your mission becomes less about saving the world, and more about killing the living dead. You'll have to examine the environment to determine the best way to fight. Landmines, trash cans, and even garbage cans. Once you've killed all the living dead, you'll escape the world and possibly live to fight another day. Hello, and welcome to my custom content mod. This is the Custom Content Pack for SwapOut. It includes lots of custom generated maps for you to experience. Map Features: --- Special room - I've managed to create this one and it's my own special addition. --- Big wastes - These big wastelands are inhabited by the undead and you cannot leave them alone. --- Lots of secret passage ways - These can be found all over the map so pay attention. --- A boat - The map also contains a boat which takes you into the blue waters so you might as well use it. --- Lots of citizens - There's a lot of civilians in the world so you can shoot them all if you wish. --- Lots of game objects - This map contains a lot of objects that are all unique. There are tons of shops, loot chests, trash cans, boxes, ghosts and more. --- Lots of hidden weapons - I've put

Weaves of Fate is an epic isometric role-playing game where you play three different characters to progress the story through the world. Choose from a variety of classes, including warlocks, paladins and assassins. Complete over 30 hours of story driven missions in between the game's dungeons, all while making your way through a deep and engaging narrative. Tales from the Borderlands - Borderlands: Season Pass gets a lot of attention, with major perks coming in Season 2, but the

Borderlands: Game of the Year Edition has a lot of great content. If you missed out on the Season Pass, Borderlands GOTY will be a great entry point into the franchise. With over 150 hours of gameplay, there's a lot to do. This is your chance to play as characters in new worlds as you explore seven new chapters with exciting story and gameplay content. As part of the Borderlands GOTY edition, you'll also get all of the DLC, the Tropical Hideout world, the Season Pass, and a variety of bonuses. The Borderlands GOTY edition is the complete Borderlands experience with seven brand-new adventures, two new fully voiced story arcs featuring the return of Claptrap, and loads of new enemies and weapons. The return of Claptrap is a game changer, with his new power armor providing armor classes and stats based on your play style and weapon loadout. Pair him with a fire-breathing robotic sidekick named Tiny Tina, and there are some new challenges on the horizon! I've said it before and I'll say it again; the Pandora franchise is one of my favorite games of all time. Borderlands has a lot of similarities to its predecessors; take giant robots, combine their parts, and give them guns. There's a lot more to this title than that though, and it's all worth playing through. So, if you're looking for a new game to add to your game library, grab Borderlands GOTY edition! This week's Mixer Game of the Week is.... THX-1138! Full game can be played here (from the Google Play Store): To find out what the competition has come up with, just keep watching the show! Every week we'll post a video blog of the c9d1549cdd

Storyline You play as Jennifer Chevalier, a naïve young artist looking to move to Paris and make a new start. Upon arriving in the city, Jennifer will use the gift she inherited from her father, a gift that she has been exercising by talking to spirits. However, her father has just died, and her father had been in Paris for a few days and left something in his hotel room. Jennifer finds a locket which she takes to a jeweler. The jeweler tells Jennifer she needs to bring it to the Hotel Miroir. She will need to find her way to the hotel and use her gift to get a message to her father, who's spirit is trapped inside the locket. Once she has brought the locket to the hotel, she needs to go inside and talk to Oscar Wilde, who she has to lead to the hotel room. When she enters the hotel, she comes across a body lying in a room. Jennifer calls for the hotel manager, but she is abducted by the hotel's staff. They take Jennifer to a room and put her in a chair, they chain her to the wall and have her talk to the body. The body tells Jennifer that the locket was sent to them by the Frenchman in Paris, but they don't know who he is. She needs to be in the room and she needs to sit at the table. The manager has to unlock the door and unlock her chains. Now the manager is abducted by two men in suits, and they try to rape Jennifer. One of the men takes her locket from her and throws it in the fire. She also spots a box on the table which she can't identify.

The two men try to cover up their tracks by writing in the journal, but Jennifer can see them doing it. The manager comes to the room and tries to help, but she is captured and taken away by the two men. Jennifer will have to decide if she can solve the puzzle by examining the room and solving puzzles, and talk to the manager while hiding from the men. With the locket, she can find a way to reach Oscar Wilde. With Oscar Wilde she can send a message to her father. Jennifer is kidnapped by the two men again, who tie her up and take her to their car. They go to a meeting place with another man in a suit. The man tells Jennifer to take the key out of her pocket and look at the ring. He wants to examine the ring, but when Jennifer doesn't know what it is, he

23 November 2014, 15:04 Hide and Seek - Gearhead 10 min read By Heli Stetson Nostalgia is rife in Hollywood, and one producer particularly known for using it as a tool for public relations is Mark Burnett. The Brit behind reality TV hits like "Survivor" and "The Voice" has his hands in other pies, too, and has also worked on a series of controversial projects due to be released on Netflix this month. "The Great British Bake Off" and "Bloodline," the transmedia sequel to the original series "Breaking Bad," are among them. But fans of AMC's breathless finale to its dysfunctional anti-hero might do well to stream the full episodes on Netflix, as they won't have the option to binge watch alongside colleagues in the pub at the end of this month. "People either hate it or love it," Burnett said about the fan reaction to the final episode of "Breaking Bad." Hiding in its main character Walt Weiss, a one-time meth kingpin, and its ever-growing cast is a lot of heaving flesh and pumping hearts. It doesn't end well for the viewer, which is arguably more interesting than it is frustrating as audiences are told their favorite person will be dead in the final episode. They can be disappointed or elated as the truth is revealed in the meantime. "I think there's a lot of emotion there and it's been a really great thing the response this has had," Burnett told NPR, which first featured Burnett on Monday's "All Things Considered." "The only reason it kind of hurt our producers because I think when we get anything like that, we want to take no chances," said Burnett. "Hopefully that will be seen as the episode ended and it's all over. The excitement's built-up." Burnett is not the only person in Hollywood who remembers enjoying their early, pre-"Breaking Bad" success. "Breaking Bad" creator Vince Gilligan was feeling good. It was May 6, 2008, and the final episode of the second season of the hit AMC show had aired. Not only was the series created by Gilligan, an honors graduate of the University of Missouri's film and television arts department, but it was also tuned in to the highest rating of any scripted drama on the American broadcast networks. "I watched it again," Gilligan said of the finale. He wasn
